HOME FROM KLONDYKE.

Henry J. Thompson and Geo. Tuxford Return from the Gold Fields.

When Wednesday morning's Imperial Limited from the west stopped at the depot platform, two Moose Jawites stepped off. They were Messrs. J. Thompson and Geo. Tuxford, two successful miners of this district who went to the Klondike some fourteen months ago, taking with them a band of beef cattle by the sale of which they intended to "make a good thing." Their experience in reaching Dawson City over the Dalton trail has already been given in these columns. How different it was coming out. They left Dawson City on Saturday, July 8th, making a record trip over the Whitehorse pass in four days. They reached Bennett on the 13th and Staggway the same night where they remained a day to catch the boat. Transportation facilities to the northward gold fields have so greatly improved during the past year, that a person can now go from Dawson City to Vancouver in ten days and with almost as much comfort as if he were to go east by the lake route, and $100 will cover the cost of the trip. While they do not profess to have made their fortune, they returned well satisfied with the result of their trip, both from a financial point of view and as an "experience." When they reached Dawson City the meat market was almost glutted and some of the larger speculators sustained heavy losses. At one time meat sold for 15c. a pound by the quarter. Taking this into consideration they think they did remarkably well by disposing of every pound they had at an average price which paid them for their trouble and left a fair margin. While there they done considerable prospecting and staked several claims and bought another. They cannot boast of their millions, but they bring back a couple of small sacks well filled with gold dust and nuggets as a sample to show their friends. Mr. Tuxford has one nugget that weighs two ounces and is worth about $32, being almost pure gold. They did not meet with many Moose Jawites in the Klondike. Dr. K. Barrett, at one time a C.P.R. mail clerk on this division, has worked up a good practice and is highly esteemed; by Dr. Goode, formerly of Winnipeg, is perhaps the leading physician. They also met a Mr. Thomas who used to ranch on the Little Arm. The Klondike is a highly interesting place, and the whole Yukon territory, and the citizens owe them a debt of gratitude for the manner in which they have discharged their duties, especially in the matter of carrying the mail. When Slagway and other towns on American stations here and come to play for the N.W.P. force who are respected and looked up to throughout the whole Yukon territory, and the citizens owe them a debt of gratitude for the manner in which they have discharged their duties, especially in the matter of carrying the mail. ### Court Cases.

On Thursday of last week a warrant was issued on information laid by Chas. Hammill for the arrest of Denis Mayall by Const. Hendren, for the stealing of a horse and bridle. The case came up for hearing on Friday at 10 o'clock before W. C. Sanders, J.P. Mr. Mayall was prosecuted and Wm. Grayson defended. The evidence for the prosecution was heard and at 12:30 the lawyers began the argument. The magistrate adjourned the case at 1 o'clock. Mr. Grayson asked to have the prisoner brought to his office at 1:30 for consultation. The magistrate told the constable to comply with the request. While there, Mr. Grayson being otherwise engaged, he made his escape. The court met at 2 o'clock but owing to the absence of the prisoner again adjourned and subsequently met. The evidence showed that the prisoner had bought the horse and borrowed the bridle, and the magistrate dismissed the case about the horse and fined him $5.00 on the bridle.

Last Saturday before Justices of the Peace H. Dorrell and Percy King, Mr. R. O. Miller and his hired man were charged with the theft of a horse and property of J. W. Fletcher, from the premises of J. H. Ross, M.L.A. He was found guilty and fined $5.00 and costs, and the hired man was bound over for six months for good behaviour.

STREET CAR ACCIDENT

FRED BULLEAU, OF TYNDALL, BADLY INJURED.

His Foot and Arm Were Crushed and the Skull Fractured—Fender
Did Not Save Him.

Winnipeg, July 24.—About 1.30 Saturday afternoon a French halfbreed named Fred Bulleau was crossing Main street from the corner of Logan avenue, when he was struck by car No. 38 of the park line, in charge of Motorman McPherson. Bulleau was said to be slightly under the influence of liquor and did not hear the car coming, which struck him when about a foot over the track. Those who saw the accident say that he was picked up by the fender but rolled off at the side and the step of the car struck him, knocking him to the ground and nearer to the wheels, when his right foot went under the wheels and was badly crushed. His left arm was also run over by the wheels, and he sustained internal injuries which may prove fatal. He was picked up insensible and carried into Watt & Gordon's hardware store, and the ambulance summoned, which took him to the hospital where Dr. England attended to his injuries. The injured man is about 35 years of age and was employed by Wm. Sandiman, of Tyn-dall, engaged in the manufacturing of line by John Gunn, of Stonewall. The motorman and conductor in charge of the car made their report to the street railway office and did not care to talk about the matter, but it will be claimed that the injured man was walking diagonally across Main street in the direction of the car, which had just left the C. P. R. depot for the park. The man, it is said, stepped onto the track when the car was only a few feet distant, and the fender scooped him up but he rolled off on the opposite side without clearing the track. The fender shows the result of the shock by having several slats broken. The car was an open motor of light body and was quickly stopped, but not before the wheels had done their sickening work. The motorman, though not classed as an "old hand" has had considerable experience.

EMERSON STORM.

Kearney House and Residence of Mr. Badgley Struck by Lightning.

Emerson, July 24.—A very severe thunder storm passed over this vicinity at an early hour Sunday morning. The Kearney house and the residence of J. A. Badgley, lumber merchant, both caught fire from the lightning, being some distance apart. The fire in the Kearney house was extinguished, but the fine home of Mr. Badgley, which he had recently remodelled, was burned to the ground. The citizens saved most of the contents. The total loss will be about $5,000, with insurance on the house and furniture amounting to $1,500. Mr. Badgley will rebuild at once. Kingston, July 24.—Friday's thunder storm did much damage. John Calhoun, a farmer aged 27, of Pittsburg township, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. John Radcliff, Cape Vincent, aged 23, was killed while working in a field. Several townships report cattle and swine killed and houses and barns wrecked.

They request an order for the return of the volunteers to their civil avocations.

MINERS STARVING.

One Thousand Alaska Miners Stranded in Katzeine.

Seattle, Wash., July 24.—From a passenger on the steamer Brunswick, just arrived here from Alaska, it is learned that a prospector is on his way from Katzeine bound to Washington in behalf of one thousand miners said to be stranded in the Katzeine district. He will ask the government to send revenue cutters to Katzeine Sound and he is provided with proof that unless government help is given many lives will be lost.

Twelve hundred people went into the Katzeine country well outfitted for the search for gold. Two hundred succeeded in getting over the snow last winter. Many died en route. There are now nearly one thousand people on the shore of the Sound, waiting for a chance to come home. No merchant vessels will run to that district this year, and the whalers, which call in there for fresh water, will not take passengers. If the miners had the means of getting home it is doubtful if they could buy their passage. Many of them have been sick with scurvy and are going to float down the several streams running into the Sound.

Robt. G. Ingersoll's Funeral.

New York, July 24.—As yet no arrangements for the funeral of the late Robert G. Ingersoll have been made. Monday had been settled on for the funeral by the male members of the family, but the widow and daughters wished the funeral on Tuesday, and that is the day set. It will be a private funeral. No one will be invited but those nearest and dearest to the dead. It will be held at the home, in Dodd's Ferry. It will be a secular funeral. Saturday there came many offers from musicians of note to bring their orchestras and play the last sad strains, but the family declined them all. There will be no music, perhaps not even an address. No singing, no prayers, nothing but a last leave-taking. Regarding Colonel Ingersoll's estate, his brother-in-law and private secretary, Mr. Farrell, said: "If he left a will, I don't know of it. Colonel Ingersoll died poor. He has not left any estate worth speaking of. Others have had the benefit of all that he earned in the law and in lecturing. What he did not spend on his loved ones he gave away in charity."

Vancouver, July 24.—An arrangement for the exchange of traffic between the Canadian Pacific and the Nelson & Fort Sheppard railways has been practically completed, so Mr. Wm. Whyte, manager of the C. P. R. lines west of Lake Superior, said when he was in Nelson with other officials on Thursday. This arrangement will be of great convenience to shippers and especially to the coal mines of the Crow's Nest Pass, as coal and coke lose largely in handling.

RIOTS IN CLEVELAND

DYNAMITE USED BY THE STREET CAR STRIKERS.

A Car and Barn Injured—All Available Police Are Guarding the Company's Plant.

Cleveland Ohio July 23.—Rioting was resumed in the street railway strike yesterday evening various outbreaks having occurred at several places.

About 9 o'clock a dynamite cartridge was exploded under the wheels of a Euclid avenue car at the corner of Erie and Prospect streets. The wheels of the car were destroyed by the explosion which was heard for a distance of two miles and one woman passenger fainted, but nobody was injured nor was anybody seen to place the cartridge.

Earlier in the evening all available police on duty in the downtown district were called to Humboldt street viaduct of the Broadway line, where a riot was in progress. A crowd of a thousand men and boys were engaged in piling obstructions on the tracks. Ropes were thrown over the trolley wires in an attempt to pull them down. Only one policeman was on duty at the viaduct. He was stoned and driven from the scene, and a girl was hit with a stone and seriously hurt. Three patrol wagon loads of police responded to the call and the mob were dispersed.

The dynamite bomb was thrown upon the roof of the big Consolidated Street Railway company's barn at Lakeview at 3 a.m. today. A jagged hole, two feet square, was torn in the roof. A Wade park avenue car, which stood directly beneath the hole was wrecked and roof torn off by the explosion.

The wildest excitement prevailed among the men in the barn. The explosion was heard for blocks and hundreds of people were attracted to the scene, but no one was injured. Many wires in the big barn were shattered by the explosion. The shock was such as to cause the ground to tremble and it seemed for a few moments as though the barn itself would fall. The police suspect two men, who were seen about the building acting in a suspicious manner. In the excitement attendant on the explosion they however got away.

AMERICANS ATTACKED

Filipinos Surprised Capt. Byrne's Command at Hobong.

Manila July 23.—News has been received from General Smith at Holo Island of Panay of a severe fight on Wednesday at Hobong between Captain Byrne of the 16th Infantry with seventy men and the American troops. One hundred and fifteen of the enemy were killed as shown by actual count and many a wounded one was taken prisoner. The American loss was one man killed and one wounded. The fighting was mostly at close quarters with bayonets and clubs. A considerable stock of supplies and arms have been captured by Captain Byrne who is in command of the battalion operating at La Carlota in the district of Negros. Chief Surgeon Woodhull has sent a vigorous protest to the war department through General Otis against the inadequate force of equipment and accommodations of the hospital service in Manila. He declines further responsibility for the health of the army until the improvement which he recommends are adopted. The chief ailment of the troops is dysentery which is largely the result of the heavy army rations served it being the same that is given the soldiers in Alaska.

Brutality of Nathan McCall.

Rochester N.Y. July 23.—Maggie McCall aged 17 who lives with her parents in a small house about half a mile from Morans' hotel in Greece was brutally and perhaps fatally assaulted by her father Nathan McCall at 7 o'clock last night. The girl is at her home under a physician's care while the whereabouts of her husband father is at present unknown but it is presumed he boarded a coal barge on the Charlotte chutes and is now on his way to Canada. Last night McCall went home considerably under the influence of liquor. He had objected to Maggie's keeping company with a young man named James Parsons. After some angry words had passed between McCall and his daughter he grasped the girl by the shoulders whacked her severely in the body several times and finally buried her forcibly to the ground where her head struck a sharp stone rendering her unconscious. At a late hour this morning she was still in an unconscious condition.

London, July 23.—A delegation from the society of agriculturists of which the Marquis de Vogue is president, called upon the minister of agriculture, M. Jean de Puy, yesterday and demanded that the government conclude no arrangement with the United States without first consulting the representatives of the agricultural industry. The minister promised to bear the matter in mind.

Harry Whitney Treat, the New Yorker, who is the moving spirit in the Vananda copper mine on Texada Island has brought down a sample of the first matte turned out by the Vananda smelter. Mr. Treat states that the first shipment of matte will be made early in August when two tons will be sent down for transhipment to New York, where it will be sold in the open market to eastern refiners. The starting up of the smelter has caused quite an excitement on the coast and has also had a great effect on the stock market. Yesterday Judge Chopp, of Chicago, sold 97,000 shares of Vananda for $10,000, or 10 cents a share. He probably bought them for less than $5,000.

Henry Johnston, a Swede, en route from Seattle to Juneau on the City of Seattle last evening was bounced out of $75 for a forged cheque on the Imperial bank for $1,000. The swindler is believed to come from Victoria probably going on board at Seattle when she touched. The police are on the lookout.

Jean de Puy, yesterday and demanded that the government conclude no arrangement with the United States without first consulting the representatives of the agricultural industry. The minister promised to bear the matter in mind.

Cruiser Floated.

London, July 23.—The office of the British admiralty today stated that the British cruiser Bonaventure, reported yesterday ashore in a bad position at Canailoy, had been floated, and is now en route to Nagasaki. From that place the Bonaventure will proceed to Hong Kong for repairs. It is assumed that the cruiser suffered no serious damage by grounding.

CONFERENCE OF PEACE

ARBITRATION WILL PROBABLY BE ADOPTED.

The Proposal Has Passed Its Second Reading and Will Undoubtedly Be Passed Entirely Today.

The Hague, July 21.—The third committee of the international conference met today, M. Bourgeois, of France, presiding. At the opening of the sitting the Roumanian, Grecian and Servian delegates jointly moved the total suppression of the five articles relating to international courts of inquiry. M. Beldiman, the Roumanian deputy, was their spokesman, and addressed the committee for an hour.

He claimed that the proposition for a court of inquiry was not contained in Count Moravieff's circular, and was contrary to the principle of national sovereignty. Roumanian, he said, would gladly pledge herself to the rest of the arbitration scheme, but it was impossible to fulfill these and other obligations. Chevalier Deschamps, the Belgian delegate, and Prof. Maarten, Russia, defended the articles, which were finally passed on the first reading, the three protesting states recording their objection.

In the afternoon Prof. Maarten said that when everything had been done to protect the weaker states against the stronger, the former thus obtaining a shield, the commission of inquiry proving this—he was willing to make some further concessions in the way of making the matter more optional. These concessions were accepted by the smaller powers and proposal passed its second reading. The arbitration scheme will probably be passed entirely to-morrow.

Pretoria, July 21.—The new franchise law comes into operation immediately. The Volksraad is sitting in secret session discussing the proposals for the cancellation of the dynamite monopoly. It has adopted further articles of the franchise law, enabling some of the Outlanders to become naturalized at the age of 16 and to obtain their franchise five years thereafter.

Whitney Will Endeavor to Persuade the Admiralty to Allow His Name to Come Before the Democratic National Convention.

Chicago, July 21.—Oliver P. Belmont, of New York, was asked last night if William C. Whitney's sudden departure for Europe was in the nature of a mission. He said he understood that Mr. Whitney meant to see Admiral Dewey and persuade the seaman to let his name be presented to the national convention as a candidate for the nomination. "Not that I believe Mr. Whitney will succeed in his object," continued Mr. Belmont. "I do not think the admiral would consent to become a candidate."

"Do you think if the admiral were brought to consent he could beat Mr. Bryan in the convention?"

"Candidly," replied Mr. Belmont, "I do not think he could. Mr. Bryan, so far as I can fathom, seems well high the unanimous choice of the whole party. Assuredly he is the natural logical candidate, and today he is invincible."

Trieste, Austria, July 21.—The United States cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, arrived here this morning. The principal paper, Il Piccolo, has a flattering article welcoming the admiral to Austria.

The Olympia will remain here for about two weeks. The admiral's health is perfect, and he has not decided whether he will go to Carlsbad, as had been announced, but it is not probable that he will do so. The admiral intends to visit Vienna. The foreign consuls were received by Admiral Dewey on board the Olympia during the forenoon.

Money Goes to Churches.

Toronto, July 21.—Justice Ross today gave judgment in an ecclesiastical case. Mrs. Jane Beburn left money to aid in the erection and completion of churches in the poorer Anglican parishes of Ontario. It is claimed the will is invalid by her friends, but the judge found that it is to the general fund of the diocese of Ontario, to which the bequest might fall, and held it to be valid.

J. G. Darine, Ontario commissioner at the Paris exhibition, states that over two hundred applications for space from Ontario have been received.

At the city council's first meeting today in the new hall, Ald. Lynd's motion to ask the government while making a survey of the French and Ottawa rivers canal, to also survey the Georgian Bay and Ontario ship canal route, was carried.

It is rumored in police circles that London has asked for twenty police and that the force will be sent there to-morrow.

NORWEGIAN ASHORE.

Halifax, July 21.—The unconfirmed rumor was received here last night that the Allan liner Norwegian was ashore at Trepassy, Nfld.

COLORED MAN CLUBBED.

Windsor, July 21.—James Ross, a colored man, was assaulted in Sandwick East by a man with a club Tuesday night. He is in a critical condition. Levi Stewart, a colored man, was arrested on suspicion, and remanded on a charge which may be murder. The evidence shows that Stewart followed Ross from an hotel, and came back and gave a watch and money to a woman. Previously he had no money. Ross was found insensible the next morning.

FIRE ON C.P.R. STEAMER.

Owen Sound, July 21.—Fire broke out about ten last night in the C.P.R. steamer Athabasca, which was tied up at her dock. It was caused by the explosion of some combustibles. An effort was made to subdue the flames by steam, but eventually the hold had to be flooded with water. The loss will be considerable as a large quantity of freight is damaged.

YUKON ROYALTIES.

The Sum Estimated at $800,000 by Mr. Girouard, Member of Council.

Vancouver, July 21.—Mr. J. E. Girouard, who passed through the city last fall on route to Dawson, where he was appointed a member of the council of administration for that district, is on his way east. He is authority for the statement that the royalties so far this year will exceed the sum of $800,000. He estimated the total output from the mines to be at least $2,000,000. He explained the discrepancy upon the royalty as compared with the total output on the ground that the former had been diminished because it was now only levied on all sums over $5,000 instead of over $2,000 as formerly. No claim, he said, was worked at all, unless it was proving rich, because labor and other expenses have been so high that practically the paying claims were confined to the five principal creeks worked last year.

Lizzie Irwin Missing.

Winnipeg, July 21.—Little two-year-old Lizzie Irwin, daughter of Mr. Geo. Irwin, a farmer of Stony Mountain, wandered away from her home on Wednesday at noon and her parents have been unable to find her since. The little girl was playing with her brother when she became annoyed at him for not giving up one of his playthings and declared she would run away. Her brother who is not more than four or five years old, seeing his little sister put her threat into effect and commenced to run away from him went at once to tell his mother. When Mrs. Irwin came out to look for Lizzie, the little girl was nowhere to be seen. Thinking the child could not be far away the mother was at first only slightly anxious, but unable to find the child she became alarmed. An hour's search of all on the farm could not find the little one. Night came on and still Lizzie could not be found, though searchers from Stonewall and Argyle lent every assistance to the distracted parents. Their efforts were of no avail and morning came without the girl being found.

Yesterday morning Mr. J. F. Campbell, proprietor of the Mansion House, who is a brother-in-law to Mr. Irwin was notified, and with the assistance of Alderman Speirs, tried to secure a bloodhound to trace the child, but was unable to find a suitable animal. Mr. Campbell took the Stoneywall train to help in the search, but up to a late hour last night the little girl had not been found. It is believed the child fell asleep on the prairie and waking up after darkness had fallen and could not find her way home and wandered away. Searching parties were out in every direction all day.

SWEETER.
The very song the blackbird sung
When love and all the world were young
My year old baby sings
Sweeter than anything with wings.
A little song with catch and trill
Made of few notes and little skill,
A song for dancing feet
Of babes and birds and all things sweet.
The baby dances as he sings
Sweeter than anything with wings
And sways his golden head
To the first song this blackbird sang.

THE NIGHTINGALE.

By E. NESBIT.

He Sang Like a Bird, Saved a Life and Won a Girl.

She was leaning on her arms at the gate and looking away from him. "It's no use," she said. "I couldn't marry any one unless I was so fond of him that I couldn't bear my life without him. That's the only excuse for marriage."

"Then I'm not to come here any more—I suppose?"

"Oh, dear," she said, drawing her eyebrows together in a worried frown. "When did you go and snail it all? It was all so pleasant! Can't you really be sensible? Let us go on just as we were, and pretend that nothing has happened."

"No," he said. "I shall go away. When one lives in longings they may as well be in Putney or Kensington."

She thought how dull tennis and dance and picnic would be without him and said stiffly, "Just as you please, of course."

Then her face lighted up as the rattle of top and hoop stick and little pattering feet drew her eyes to the other side of the road, where a little girl in a scarlet frock came quickly along the asphalt, her brown hair flying behind her.

"Here's Vynie!"

The child saw her sister and her friend, for she was a friend to all children, and struck the hoop so that it bounded on the curb and flew into the middle of the road. The little scarlet figure followed it. Then, in a flash, a butcher's cart from a side road, a clatter, a scream, a curse, and the butcher was rearing in his horse 30 yards down the road and looking back over his blue coat at a heap of scarlet and brown that now had crimson mixed with it, and over which a girl in a blue gown and a man in a gray suit were landing.

"Her leg is broken. They have set it. It will be months before she can walk. But they say she will be all right again."

The two were standing at the gate again, but now there was no fresh rose in her face, and in his eyes no light of passion.

"My poor dear," he said, and she did not resent his words, "but we do anything I can. Forget all that folly of this evening and let me help my poor little Vynie."

"I will—your shall," she said, looking at him through swollen eyelids red with weeping. "But there is nothing any one can do. It is her fate. When I told her she would have to lie still for a time, she tried to smile, and then she said: 'Don't cry, Sissy. I will be as good as gold.' And then she said she would sleep all day and lie awake at night to hear the nightingale. She has never heard it."

He remembered how he had listened to the nightingale in the copse behind her house on many a summer night when he had walked lonely in the fields to see her light in the window and her shadow on the blind, and he sighed and said: "The nightingale will come back to you in the wood beyond the station. I'm glad she has thought of something that pleases her, poor darling."

Vynie lying still and rigid in her splints, with wide open eyes, watched the day die. Then the lamp was lighted, and presently, as in its turn gave place to the yellow glow of the night light and the great shadows it cast.

"Are you asleep, Sissy, my own?" said the little voice.

"No, my darling. Rose bent over the bed. "Does it want anything? Will it have some milk—nice warm milk?"

"Oh, Sissy, be quiet! I can't lie still all the time unless he comes! Do please ask God to tell the nightingale how badly I want him. And, Sissy, put out the light. Perhaps he doesn't like to sing till he's sure I'm in bed, and he couldn't know he's got broken, could he?"

"No, my precious, no! Try to go to sleep, and Sissy will wake you if he begins to sing."

But Vynie could not sleep, and by morning the fever was high. She talked and moaned and laughed, but always her cry was for the nightingale.

"Master Tom, please to inquire."

Rose went down, trembling with want of sleep, haggard with anxiety. She took the great basket of roses her friend had brought, and, holding it, told him how the night had passed. "They were singing like mad down by the station," he said. "Confound the brutes! I expect your nightingale isn't coming this year."

"Don't," said the girl, "believe Vynie will have no rest if he doesn't. When she heard the church bells this morning, she told me to send to the clergyman and tell him to explain to God that she couldn't do without the nightingale. Oh, my own little girl! Oh, Tom, she's all I have."

Tom was not such a fool as to say, "You have no rest if he doesn't. Yes, I know," and pressed her hand.

"You are good," she said, and went back to the child.

A little fitful sleep came in the long night hours of that terrible Sunday, but it was broken and feverish, and at every awakening the little voice, growing ever weaker, said:

"Isn't it dark yet? Won't God send the nightingale? Oh, Sissy, I do want to hear him."

The old servant, who had been with the two sisters since Vynie's birth, two months after the father's death, had cost the life of the mother, insisted on sending Rose to rest and eat by Vynie's side.

"Nurse," whispered the child, "come close. Will you do what I say?"

"Anything, my precious," said the old woman, holding the little hands in her smooth, withered palms.

"Well, kneel down and tell God I shall die if I don't have the nightingale. God will attend to you because you always remember to say your prayers. I forget mine sometimes, even when I'm not very sleepy. Oh, nurse, I shall never be sleepy any more. Do tell God all about it."

The old woman knelt by the bedside and with a faith simple as beautiful as the child's own, "told God all about it."

The day was deepening. The child lay with cheeks scarlet against the white pillows and shining eyes fixed on the slowly darkening squares of the window. She moaned with pain and the misery of sleeplessness.

"Open the window, nurse, my dear," she said softly when the night had almost fallen. "I think I heard something."

When the window was opened, Vynie held her breath and listened to a silence that after a moment was softly broken by two or three mellow notes.

"Is it—oh, is it? Nurse—nurse!"

"It is the nightingale right enough, my pet," said the old woman as Rose crept into the room like a ghost in her white dressing gown.

"Oh, Sissy, my own! It is—it is! God's not forgotten me. He's going to let me go to sleep, and the nightingale will sing even when I'm asleep. Listen!"

Again the full notes pierced the soft darkness.

Rose gathered her little sister in her arms, and together they listened—Vynie to the song of the nightingale and Rose with a full heart to the breathing, gradually more even and tranquil, of the little child she held against her bosom.

"She's asleep," said the nurse softly. "I won't move," whispered Rose. "I'll stay here. Oh, thank God, thank God!"

Tom came every day to inquire, and it seemed to Rose that he grew paler and thinner in this anxious time, and every night the notes of the nightingale sounded from the dark wood—through nights radiant with clear moonlight and through the black darkness of night wild with wind and rain. And Vynie grew stronger and ate and drank and played dominos and was on the highroad to well being once more.

Then came a night when the nightingale did not sing. Vynie did not miss it; she slept so sound of nights now. And on that night followed a day when Tom did come, and then another day and another. Rose missed him miserably. On the first day she was angry at his absence; on the second, anxious; on the third she sent the old nurse to see whether he was ill.

"You'd best go round," said the old woman, when she came back from her mission. "He's more than ill. Pneumonia or something, and he keeps asking for you. Go, you. I'll stay with the child. He's got no one with him but his landlady, a feeble-bodied girl, if ever there was one. Go now, my lamb."

No Rose went.

His face showed ghastly in the frame of his disordered hair and of a three days beard.

She came to him and took his hands.

"That woman says I'm dying," he whispered. "But Vynie's all right, isn't she?"

"Yes, yes, but what have you been doing? Oh, Tom, it isn't my fault, is it, Tom? I didn't drive you late folly? That woman says you've been out all night—every night since Vynie's been ill. Say it wasn't my doing."

"It was for Vynie's all right, isn't she?" was the nightingale, dear. Don't you remember how I used to call the robins for you in the winter. It was a silly little thing, but it was all I could do for the dear. And it did do her good. You said so."

He turned aside his head exhausted. Rose's eyes were full of tears. "You stand in that wood all night, every night? You imitated the nightingale in all the wind and rain? And now?"

She had crouched by the bed, and laying her head on her hands she sobbed aloud.

"Don't," he said feebly. "It was nothing. Just a little thing to please the child."

She lifted her face, flushed and distorted by her violent weeping, and laid it gently against his. He put up a feeble hand and touched her neck.

"You're sorry for me," he whispered. "You needn't be. I can't even be unhappy after this. Your face—your dear face—I don't in the least mind dying now."

She sprang up. "Dear Tom—my own dear Tom! You're not going to die. I shall send nurse to take care of you. Now promise me at once that you will get well, because Vynie and I cannot possibly live without you, my dear, dear, dear!"

Tom did not give the promise, but he did what was better. He got well.

When he first saw Vynie, now walking cheerfully with the crutches that would soon be laid aside, she told him about the nightingale.

"And, do you know," she said, "Sissy says he never sang after you got ill. I suppose God was so busy taking care of you that he hadn't time to bother with naughty nightingales that wouldn't do their singing. The nightingale sang very nicely, though, when he was made to. Only I thought after a bit he seemed a little husky."

"Perhaps he caught a cold," said Tom. "If that's so, the nights were very wet."

"Perhaps he didn't like you, you know," said Vynie cheerfully. "Well, he was a naughty nightingale. But if he had a cold I hope he had some one as nice as nurse and sister to look after him, like they did you."

"I think he had," said Tom. "Anyhow I shall always love him, even if he was naughty, because he helped me to get well."

"It would make him very happy if he knew that."

"Do you think he does know?"

"Yes, if that's so."

"Well, whether or no," said Vynie, comfortably. "I'll go out in the wood and tell him all about it if he sings in that wood next year."

But the nightingale never sang in that wood again—Collier's Weekly.

The Manufacture of Soap.
In the production of the well known English hard soaps of high repute the manufacturers use hard animal or vegetable fats and weak solutions of soda. These being generally boiled together until the thin paste is saponified, when the soap and the glycerin remain suspended in the water, and they are next separated by brine or common salt, in which soap is not soluble. Any excess of alkali, all the glycerin and the water combine with the salt and so the soap up to the top in a granulated mass. The spent lye containing the glycerin is withdrawn through a tap placed at the bottom of the boiler, and the soap curd, after being melted, may be run direct into wooden or iron frames to cool and harden, or it may be further treated with alkali and again salted and melted.

Worse Than Poverty.
The word Turk was for centuries taken in a religious sense as synonymous with Mohammedan. Thus in Bosnia, where in the fifteenth century many Slavs were converted to Mohammedanism, their descendants are still known as Turks, especially where they use the Turkish speech in their religion. Obviously in this case no Turkish blood need flow in their veins. It is the religion of Islam, acting in this way, which has served to keep the Turks as distinct from the Slavs and Greeks as they are today.

Freeman has drawn an instructive comparison in this connection between the fate of the Bulgars, who are merely Slavonized Finns, and the Turks, who have steadily resisted all attempts at assimilation. The first came, he says, as "these heathen savages (who could be Christianized, Europeanized, assimilated)," because no antipathy save that of race and speech had to be overcome. The Turks, in contrast, came "burdened with the half truth of Islam, with the half civilization of the east." By the aid of these, especially the former, the Turk has been enabled to maintain an independent existence as "an unnatural excrescence" on this corner of Europe.—Popular Science Monthly.

The Boys Won.
At a recent election in Hays City, Kan., a ticket composed of boys was run against the old men, and the boys won out in a canter. Fred Hoffmeyer, the mayor, is barely 31, and only one of the councilmen is older than 33. Hoffmeyer was born on the town site. Two of the councilmen were privates in the Twenty-first Kansas.

Olwen turned her head away. This manner of treating the subject startled her. The man's humility was utterly unexpected. She had looked for a storm of rage, a tempest of reproaches, and these would have relieved her a little, for her conscience was not altogether at rest when she thought of the way in which she had treated Maurice Harding, but it disconcerted her to be met with this acknowledgment of wrongdoing, this abasement of spirit, in the man upon whom she had tried to wreak her revenge. She wished she could recall to atone for her past bitterness. But she had gone too far. It was hardly possible for her to take back what she had said. Besides, she had remembered her wrongs for seven years and more. She had acted on meeting Harding as she had always meant to act. And how would she stultify herself by owing to a softer mood?

Still, the look of dumb misery on Harding's face troubled her. She wished the couple speak of some other subject so as to lead his mind away from the proposal of marriage that he had made, but she felt that she had neither strength nor courage enough to do so. She was almost relieved when he came to a sudden stop and confronted her.

"I won't afflict you with my presence any longer," he said in his harshest voice. "I can but say I am sorry—and I'll leave the house tonight. I congratulate you, Miss Dare. You have had your revenge and you had a right to it. Fate does not always give us the chance of paying off an old score, but you are fortunate and have paid it in full—and with interest. I will wish you goodby now. You are close to the garden gate, so you will not need a guide any farther. Good evening."

"Oh, Mr. Harding, surely you will not go like this! I—I am sorry."

"Sorry? After attaining your end so completely? Oh, that is impossible!" said Harding, smiling and raising his hat. And Olwen could say no more. But she did not forget the mute reproach of that pale face, with the number eyes and the frown of pain upon the brow.

CHAPTER II.
"Harding has been called away on business," the host explained that night at dinner: "a sudden telegram—something very important. I believe. I dare say Miss Dare can tell us what it is." And the squire indulged in a chuckle which brought a flush of unwelcome color to Olwen's pale cheek.

"I know nothing of Mr. Harding's affairs," she said so coldly that the squire floundered into a sort of apology.

"Of course not, my dear. Why should you? But as I saw you walking with him in the park just before he was summoned away, I thought you might have heard what it was."

The squire's wife looked daggers at him. "What an absurd idea to suppose that Mr. Harding would talk business to a young lady!" she said lightly, but she did not do away with the uncomfortable impression that had been produced. Some of the guests glanced oddly at Miss Dare. It was felt that an explanation of Mr. Harding's departure ought to come from her. Every one knew or thought that he had been on the brink of a proposal, and of course she meant to accept him, or she would never have received his attentions so complacently. If it had been mere flirtation on her part and she had refused him after all—why, then, Olwen Dare had behaved disgracefully and deserved the reprobation of all well regulated minds.

But Olwen gave no sign. She conversed with her neighbors in a particularly agreeable manner and professed herself quite unable to give any reason for Mr. Harding's sudden departure. She hoped that she would escape without further questioning, but she was not to be let off quite so easily. Her hostess, a large, fair woman with a passion for matchmaking, followed her to her room.

"Now, dear, do tell me," she said, "whether Maurice Harding did not give you some clue as to why he was going so suddenly."

"I am not in Mr. Harding's confidence," said Olwen with a blush.

"Oh, that's all nonsense!" said Lady Diana—she was an earl's daughter, although she had married only a country squire, and she thought herself an adept in the art of advising young people about their love affairs. "We all know that he was desperately in love with you!"

"Please don't say so, Lady Diana!"

"But I will say so, child, because I know it for a fact," said the lady, settling herself in a big chair covered with cushions and holding out one foot toward the fire in the grate. "He told me some days ago how much he admired you, and I told him to go in and win, for I was sure he would be successful."

"I don't think you were quite justified in saying that to him!"

"Oh, don't you, my dear! You girls are very faddy sometimes. But you've shown us so plainly that you were as much in love with Harding as Harding was with you!"

Olwen started up, her face all in a blush. "I have not—I have not!" she cried passionately. "I—I show that I was in love! I was not! I was not! I could not show it when I—"

Suddenly she covered her face with her hands and burst into tears. "Oh, I don't know after all! If so, her case was hard, for she had sent him away from her with words of scorn and anger, and he was not the man to sue for her love a second time.

EASY TO FOOL US.

Discard Sight and Smell, and Water Will Pass For Coffee.
It would now seem from experiments which have been carried on in the University of Iowa that we do not taste many of the things which we eat at our daily meals. It is asserted confidently that we merely smell them. If the nose is tightly closed, in the ordinary man, and he is blindfolded, he will not be able to distinguish coffee from water or a weak solution of quinine. This has been proved by experiments made on many persons. Common coffee was said to be water; it was also said to be quinine. Water was said to be coffee. Tea was called coffee. Turkey was called pork. Raw apple was called grape juice. Malt extract was cherry wine. Lard was pronounced butter. In short, experienced persons were unable to distinguish many common foods and drinks when sensations of smell were removed, and the conclusion was reached that a person might even practice economy in eating by merely blindfolding the eyes and substituting lair, pork and beef for butter, turkey and venison, while if the further precaution was taken to close the nose, a very weak solution of quinine would pass for good coffee and vinegar for the most costly wine.

The experiments which led to these conclusions were carried on by Professor G. T. W. Patrick of the University of Iowa, who communicated some of the results of his work to the American Psychological Society. Professor Patrick was enabled to attain great accuracy in his work by the fact that one of the persons he experimented upon was an anosmic—that is, absolutely devoid of the sense of smell. He was enabled thus to determine which sensations were of taste and which were of smell. He experimented also on normal subjects, and some of the results were surprising.

There are only four simple taste sensations—namely, sweet, bitter, sour and salt. It is said by some that there are only two, sweet and bitter. All other sensations which are commonly called tastes are complex results of sensation of smell, touch, temperature and sight. The means by which we distinguish almost all of our common foods and drinks is not the sense of taste so much as it is the sense of smell, touch and sight and temperature. All the fine differences by which we distinguish the various fruits, meats and drinks depend not upon taste at all, but upon these other senses. Pure sensations of taste add hardly more than a certain emotional element to the complex sensations.—Detroit Free Press.

A BALL OF FIRE.

The Queer Freaks It Played in a Telegraph Office.
"Electricity is like a male in one respect," said a veteran operator. "You can never tell just when it's going to get up on its front legs and kick you into the middle of next week. I remember years ago, when I was night chief operator at the office, Richmond, a very strange thing happened. I was sitting at my table one night at about 11 o'clock waiting for it to stop raining so I could go home. There was a big storm up the line, and, while we didn't feel it to any great extent in the city, the lightning had been playing the mischief with the wires in the office and several of the connections had burned out."

"All of a sudden I heard a strange snapping sound at my instrument, and next thing I knew a flash of bluish white fire lit up the whole room. When a globe of flame about the size of an orange seemed to spring from the armature and began to roll slowly over the top of the table. As nearly as I can describe the thing, it was like a globe of molten metal, glowing through and through with incandescent fire and shimmering with every color of the rainbow. It was beautiful to look at, and fascinated me like a snake. Moreover, it seemed as fragile as a bubble—as if a touch would shiver it to atoms—and without thinking I reached for it with a wooden ruler."

"Luckily my assistant had more sense, and he yelled at me so frantically that I stopped before I touched it. Just then the fiery ball struck the edge and rolled off. As it reached the floor it shattered like a drop of quicksilver and suddenly disappeared. When I recovered my senses and looked at the table, I was shocked. The instrument was a wreck and the track of the electric apparition was charred into the wood half an inch deep. If I had prodded it, I wouldn't be telling the story, for the ruler had a metal edge, and I would probably have been electrocuted then and there."

"I have heard of such fire balls from a few old operators, but that's the only one I ever saw, and I'm not yearning to see another. Nobody has ever been able to explain them. Of course the time I speak of was before the introduction of improved current arrestors, and nowadays such visitors are pretty effectively barred out."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Not His Idea.
"Look at that man Fulton!" exclaimed one member of the Cuban army. "He has the right idea. A soldier would rather fight than eat."

"A soldier would rather fight than eat—the comrade who was on his way to get his ration broke off in the middle of his remark and exclaimed: 'There you go! Always getting the cart before the horse!'"—Washington Star.

"Rushin the Season."
You kin bet I've had some pleasure You kin bet, never measure. An I'm feelin' w'at the calls "O. E." Though ma didn't know I did it (if she knew it, she'd forget it). Yet I took my shoes an' stockin's off today.

In the springtime I was hatin' To give up my dandy skatin' An' my rubber boots an' shinny stick an' skates. For I realize my folly, An' at school I'm mighty jelly. For I took 'em, shoes an' stockin's off today.

When a bully, party scrappy, Makes my reeces most unhappy I kin see him an' I kin see him run away; I kin give him with a snigger, He can't catch me, though he's bigger. For he has his shoes an' stockin's on today.

But I'll tell you in conclusion There will be a slight confusion If a flickin' makes the pleasure of the day. An I fear that I'll be rushed For at noon my sister tattled That I had my shoes an' stockin's off today. —Chicheston Enquirer.

THE END IS PARALYSIS.

"A living mind in a dead body" is the way paralysis is described. Next to death itself paralysis is most to be dreaded. And yet many people who have nervous disorders, which are leading directly to paralysis, lose sight of the terrible ending awaiting them.

Overwork, worry, irregular habits, or excessive alcoholic or sexual indulgence, are among the causes of this disease. The first symptoms are nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, loss of appetite, memory, and business capacity, lack of confidence, gloomy forebodings and despondency, headache and general weakness of the body. When these symptoms appear you can be sure that the nerves are exhausted, and unless quickly restored will ultimately become paralyzed.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Restores and revitalizes the nerve cells and positively prevents paralysis and nervous prostration. Through the nervous system it tones and invigorates the whole body and fills it with new life and vitality.

For female weakness and the pains and irregularities peculiar to women Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of untold value. It is the world's greatest restorative.

THE MEN WE WANT.

A party of five delegates, representing a large number of farmers in the State of Kansas, spent all day Tuesday in town. They were on their way to the Edmonton district to look for land, and had been all through Manitoba and some parts of Eastern Assiniboia. They arrived in Moose Jaw on the local train the previous evening and were waiting for the Imperial Limited. If the Moose Jaw Board of Trade had been organized, they might have given the delegates a drive through the district. What we want here is good Anglo-Saxon settlers, and it is by taking advantage of such opportunities as this that we can get them. Another splendid opportunity to do work along this line will offer itself in a few days. The Canadian Press Association (Ontario and Quebec) is having an excursion to the Coast, which will bring to this country the largest number of Ontario editors that have ever travelled through the West. Now these are the men who are entrusted with the education of the farmers' sons of the eastern provinces, as far as public questions and immigration matters are concerned. Every member of the Association who is satisfied with the conditions of things in the North-West can and no doubt will, do more good to this country than a dozen immigration agents. While we might not be able to induce them to stop over at Moose Jaw, we think that something should be done to give them a welcome while passing through. For instance, they could be met at the station by a delegation of citizens and presented with an address setting forth some of the advantages of our district. The excursion will pass through here about August 8th or 9th, and we sincerely hope that the town council, or the Agricultural Society, or somebody, will take the matter in hand. We frequently hear complaints made that the advantages and resources of the Territories are not properly placed before our fellow countrymen in the east by the immigration department, and there is no doubt good cause for complaint. But if the Immigration Department were not more alive to the problem of peopling these prairies than are some of the communities most interested, it would be a long time before our population would be materially increased. Perhaps the Department works on the principle of helping those who help themselves. So long as we let opportunities like those mentioned above pass by—opportunities that it would cost but a trifle to take advantage of—we do not think there is much room to complain against the policy of the Department.

The Toronto Globe deals in strong terms with the Senate's action in throwing out the Redistribution Bill, and thus defeating the will of the people as expressed by their representatives in the Commons. The Globe says: "The question now to be determined is whether or not the Liberals of Canada belong to an inferior order of mankind, whether or not they are political Utlenders in their own country, whether or not Conservative politicians are divinely commissioned to govern through a partisan group in the Senate, when ejected from the treasury benches by a vote of the people." It refers in severe terms to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and says that no body of Canadian citizens can afford to accept a position of political inferiority. "It is time that the Liberals of the west, the Liberals of Ontario, to stand together and determine that not one inch of ground will be surrendered in the federal or provincial sphere until political equality for the Liberals is re-established in Canada. The plain policy of the Senate is to bedevil and disrupt the Liberal party, to wear out the patience of the people, to create the impression that the Liberals cannot govern."

A comparative statement of the railways of the world shows that Canada has, with one exception, a greater mileage than any other country in the world, on the basis of population. We even surpass the United States, which has 26½ miles of railroad to each 10,000 inhabitants, against Canada's 32.17 miles for the same number of inhabitants. Australia is practically on a par with Canada, its percentage 32.33 miles. The computation is made in a late edition of a prominent German publication devoted to railway affairs, and known as The Archiv für Eisenbahnwesen.—Canada Engineer.

Bob Ingersoll, the noted infidel, has passed the great divide, his death having occurred at Walston-on-the-Hudson last Friday. At the funeral there were no clergymen to conduct the services; there was no music and no pall bearers. Bob Ingersoll is dead, but his life work will live after him—for a time,—but not in the sense generally implied. The cause which he opposed has outlived greater infidels than he, and will still live long after Bob Ingersoll is forgotten.

The lamentable death of Fraser and McDonald on the Crow's Nest Pass construction, has caused the introduction of a bill in the House of Commons for the preservation of health on public works, by which a higher estimate will be placed on human life and the necessary care and medical attendance will be assured to unfortunates.

THE HEART WAILS

Of Thousands Have Been Turned Into the Joy Songs of the Cured by the Almost Magic Medicine, Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart—It Relieves in 30 Minutes.

Mrs. John Fitzpatrick, of Gananoque, was for five years a great sufferer from heart disease,—spent some time under experts in the Kingston hospital without getting any benefit, and was pronounced incurable. She commenced taking Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, and when she had taken three bottles all her symptoms, palpitation and pain left, her heart was strong and she had no return of it, and ascribes her cure to this greatest of heart remedies.

As an instance of the rapid strides that can be made in this country by pushing young men who don't mind a little hard work, the following is told: Mr. Colin McDougall, of Indian Head, arrived there at the age of 18 with the magnificent capital of 40 cents. For four years he worked as a farm laborer at an average salary of $12 per month. He then rented a half section of improved land at $300 per year with the privilege of purchasing at any time. After two years' work here he bought a half section of land for $4,000 and sold it out about June for $7,300, and is now starting in again in the Yellow Grass district with a capital of $6,000 clear.

"SUFFERED UNTOLD MISERY."
South American Rheumatic Cure Thwarted Disease and Cured Him Outright.

Robert E. Gibson, merchant, Pembroke, says that ten years ago he contracted rheumatism in a very severe type, suffering untold misery, resorted to dry blisters and other severe treatments with no lasting good or relief. When hope of recovery was well nigh gone he was induced to try South American Rheumatic Cure. The first dose gave him instant relief, half a bottle cured him outright. His own words were: "It is the best rheumatic remedy on earth."

An extra of the North-West Gazette is being distributed, again calling attention to the fact that every steam boiler in the Territories subject to inspection shall before the 31st December next be provided with a "pop" safety valve of approved make in addition to or in place of any safety valve now on the boiler, and such pop valve shall be provided with proper lock and appliances so that it may be locked by the inspector at the time of inspection. No person except the inspector shall be in possession of a key or any appliance for opening the lock of any pop safety valve, and no person shall interfere with or in any way attempt to alter any pop safety valve after it has been set and locked by the inspector.

through the winter? If so, we are sure it quieted your cough, healed the rawness in your throat, increased your weight, gave you more color, and made you feel better in every way. But perhaps your cough has come back again, or you are getting a little thin and pale.

Then, why not continue the same helpful remedy right through the summer? It will do you as much good as when the weather is cold.

Its persistent use will certainly give you a better appetite and a stronger digestion.

It will cure your weak throat and heal your inflamed lungs. It will cure every case of consumption, when a cure is possible. Don't be persuaded to take something they say is just as good.

GREATEST HORSE ACT.

Joe Berris' Marvellous 63 Performing Horses in the Ring.

The sublime culmination of the art of training is marvellously shown in the equestrian performance executed by 63 thoroughbreds under the guidance of Joe Berris, America's most famous equine educator, appearing with the Walter L. Main Circus at Moose Jaw on Wednesday, August 2nd, for one performance, afternoon at 2 o'clock. The act introduces the finest specimens of American and Arabian thoroughbred horses executing the grandest and greatest performance imagined. A positively wonderful display of such downright novelty, out and out originality, unrivalled magnificence and thrilling interest as to blot out forever all previous animal exhibitions. There are rings within rings, platforms upon platforms, and in upon all of which horses perform concurrently and simultaneously, moving in five circles in opposite directions. This feature alone is said to be worth more than the price of admission, and is but one of the hundred astounding numbers on the fascinating programme.

Why is it that one man is old and decrepit at 45 and another hale and hearty at 80? It depends on the care he takes of himself. Often a man's body gets out of repair—the trouble grows until it lays him out in bed. Whenever a man feels that he is not as well as he ought to be, whenever he is listless, without energy and without vitality, whenever he finds that he is losing weight, that his ordinary work gives him undue fatigue, he needs Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If he keeps on working with his liver inactive and his blood impure—he keeps his nerves and his body under a constant nervous strain. He will not be hearty when he is old. The Golden Medical Discovery cures many so-called diseases because nearly all illness springs from the same thing—bad digestion and consequent impure blood. The Discovery makes the appetite good, the digestion strong, assimilation easy and the blood rich and pure.

DEED OF HEROISM.

A Railway Man Receives $18.00 For Saving the Lives of One Hundred Passengers.

The burning of the bridge over Stony Creek, a few miles this side of North Bend, which delayed the trains for a couple of days last week, called forth an act of heroism on the part of the C. P. R. night watchman which probably saved the lives of one hundred passengers. Somewhere near midnight on Saturday the bridge was burned down. The Imperial Limited was coming westward towards the destroyed bridge, and the train bearing home the four hundred journalists was coming eastward behind the Atlantic flyer. If Honey, the watchman, had not been a strong swimmer and a brave man, results might have been appalling. Honey had a swiftly running swollen mountain stream to ford and swim before he could flag the other train as well. This he did, keeping his lantern dry by holding it above his head. This is the simple story of how Honey saved two trains from destruction. For his heroic deed "Honey" received a most remarkable reward. A collection was taken up and the magnificent sum of $18.00 was subscribed. This was the value of the lives of about one hundred passengers—eight and three-fifths cents apiece.

DEADLY CATARRH

has fastened its relentless grip upon some number of nearly every family in the land. Competent authorities estimate that from eighty to ninety per cent. of the entire population of this continent suffer from some form of this repulsive and dangerous ailment. If you or any of your family are either from recognized catarrh or from the lingering colds which mark its early stages—don't write with it. It is the precursor of consumption and death.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder

never fails. It is the remedy of all catarrhs, endorsed by the most experienced and eminent medical specialists of the day, and having a record of a multitude of radical, permanent cures of chronic cases which had been declared incurable. It also cures colds in the head, influenza, hay fever, loss of smell, deafness, sore throat, tonsillitis, asthma and all similar diseases. It is delightful to use.

"I have had a dreadful cough ever since the war," says J. C. Taylor, of 101 N. Clinton Ave., Toronto, N. J. "I had been cured of my cough by Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder and my catarrh has entirely left me." Dr. C. E. Wilson, of 101 N. Clinton Ave., Toronto, N. J., writes: "I have used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder in a safe, simple and certain cure. The Lord Bishop of Toronto, Can., recommends the remedy over his own signature. Sold by druggists."

BEAUTIFUL BUFFALO LAKE

THE "TIMES" MAN WAS SPY- ING OUT THE LAND.

He Pays a Flying Visit to Some of the Farmers Who Have Made Moose Jaw Famous, and Spends a few Hours at Charlie Riden's Grove and
"Billy" Down's Garden.

On Monday morning of this week a representative of THE TIMES and his "better half" joyfully accepted a standing invitation from Messrs. Chas. Riden and Wm. Down, to pay a visit to, and have a personal handshake with, some of the "bone and snow" of one of the loveliest and best wooded districts in the whole North-West.

So at about half-past eight o'clock we climbed up behind one of McDonald & Riddell's "blooms" and made our way for the north. We soon found ourselves on a well graded road, which in reality is a continuation of Main Street, to Buffalo Lake, a distance of some fourteen miles.
The morning air could not have been more pleasant, the "trail" was in perfect condition—kept so by constant traffic—and everything pointed to a pleasant day.

A few minutes' drive brought us to the farm house of Mr. Wm. Down, and his sons, who have the honor to be numbered among the new arrivals this year, having arrived last April from Palmerston, accompanied by his wife, three grown up sons and one daughter. Before leaving Ontario, his two sons made a thorough inspection of the country, and one going through to the coast and the other visiting Manitoba and Eastern Annisinibolia points. They met here last fall and after looking over the district, they came to the conclusion that Moose Jaw was the place for them. They accordingly purchased three-quarters of a section of 600 acres—in the Caron settlement, about eighteen miles west of town. They then went home and returned this spring with their parents and families. The "old folks" thought Caron was too far away, and instead of settling there they thought another place better. They bought 800 acres of land two miles north of town, where they have built a large and comfortable two-story farm house, 24x 32 feet, besides stables and other buildings. They brought with them two carloads of stock and implements, and have got right down to business. They have thoroughbred horses, and six cows. They are working three outfits and have already broken up 175 acres of land. They have a 37-acre field of as pretty oats as you would wish to see on any farm, and 40 acres of wheat put in on a farm rented from Mr. R. West. They have since disposed of a half section of their land at Caron to a Mr. Wattars,

another new arrival this spring. Mr.
Down and sons are well pleased with the change they made. They had a 200 acre farm in Ontario and were well to do; but they found it was too much work to turn their coarse grains into pork in order to sell it. They thought that if they could make more profitable and less troublesome
to raise "No. 1 hard" at Moose Jaw, Mr.
Down and sons are the kind of settlers we want in this district. We have plenty of room for them and there are plenty of themselves in Ontario; but it seems to be difficult to make the connection. If the immigration Department would help us out of this difficulty it would be doing a good turn to the North-West, and the farmers sons of Ontario who would locate here would, we are confident, ever feel grateful. Mr. Down has started well. Our advice to him is: "We sit out along these lines, if it takes you all summer."

Just across the road from Mr.
Down's is the farm of Mr. Robert Riddell. Mr. Riddell is among the old timers of this district, and has come through the "hard years" of the expatriation Department would help us out of this difficulty it would be doing a good turn to the North-West, and the farmers sons of Ontario who would locate here would, we are confident, ever feel grateful. Mr. Down has started well. Our advice to him is: "We sit out along these lines, if it takes you all summer."

When the subject of tree planting is under discussion. After travelling about six miles we drove up to Mr. Riden's and were introduced to his father and two sisters who live with him. After stabling the horse we were shown through the garden grove, all of which showed the greatest horticultural skill and careful attention. In reality Mr. Riden has a small experimental farm, or what Prof. Robertson would call an "illustrating station" in the tree line. In his grove there are over sixty varieties of shade trees, and he now measures it, not by the number of trees, but by the area.
His experiments in the tree line include European willow, native maple, box elder, soft maple, ginals maple, white, black, green and native and American mountain ash; six different kinds of Russian poplar, and an equal number of plant the Norway spruce, dwarf pine, Scotch fir, white and brown birch, etc., and are proving entirely successful, and furnish an object lesson to the settlers of the district. Mr. Riden planted his first trees some twelve years ago, and they are now fully twenty feet high and are the most beautiful of the kind in the area.
Mr. Riden tried transplanting trees from the lake, but after several experiments found that it would not work as they would seldom mature and generally died the first or second year. His plan now is to sow the seed and let the young trees grow, but by the area is in proper condition there will be no failure. Mr. Riden has never watered his trees, his theory being that if a tree cannot grow with the natural moisture and rainfall it is no good for this country.
Mr. Riden has found the European willow to be the most desirable as a wind break. The ginals maple makes a beautiful hedge, but the box elder is not recommended. White and black ash are good trees for this country, but are not hardy, and the black and green ash does well and he has raised seed from it. All but one of the Russian poplars are well adapted to the country and some of the Russian willows do well, but are not hardy enough. The native poplar is hard to start, but does well afterwards. The balsam of Gilead is very progressive and hardy and spreads its roots for twenty feet around, from which "suckers" sprout. He would not recommend it for a small garden as it absorbs too much ground. So much for shade trees. Mr. Riden has also raised suc-

their land at Caron to a Mr. Wattars,
another new arrival this spring. Mr.
Down and sons are well pleased with the change they made. They had a 200 acre
farm in Ontario and were well to do; but they found it was too much work to turn their coarse grains into pork in order to sell it. They thought that if they could make more profitable and less troublesome
to raise "No. 1 hard" at Moose Jaw, Mr.

daughters—they are no longer boys and girls—doing well, his sons either on farms of their own or engaged in business, and his daughters all married to prosperous members of the town and district. Mr. Gilmour is not yet sure whether he will leave the district, but in all probability he will spend next winter in California, as the climate of that State seems to be the most congenial.

After leaving Mr. Gilmour's it was too late to make any more calls, so declining an urgent invitation to stop over, we struck the main trail for home, reaching Moose Jaw at 3 o'clock.

The settlers of the Buffalo Lake district are alive to the question of education and have taken advantage of the splendid opportunities offered by our educational system. There are three schools in the district, viz., Carmel, Buffalo Lake and Clinton; the latter being recently organized. There are also two beautiful little churches in the district, both of which redound to the credit of the settlers. Last year the Anglican congregation erected a church near Mr. Riden's at a cost of about $1,200, while the disciples of John Knox erected a place of worship some years ago near Mr. Gilmour's.

The short trip was an eye-opener to the Times man. Not on account of what he did see, but on account of what he did not have time to see. During the day he was not more than sixteen miles from Moose Jaw, nor did he call on half the farmers in that distance. We believe we could travel through this district for three weeks, visiting Boham, Caron, Marlborough, Pleasant View, Summerside, Stony Beach, Eastview and the numerous ranchers in the Qu'Appelle Valley and on the Little Arm, and every day we could write a similar story. After that we could spend two more weeks visiting the prosperous farmers of South Moose Jaw, including the ranchers of the berry and Coventry Settlements; the ranchers of Old Wives' Lake and the Dirt Hills further south, also Parkburg, Chaplin and Walsh in the west, Dun-durn in the north and Wood Mountain and Willow Beach to the south, all of which is included in the Moose Jaw district.

An opinion as to the crop prospects will naturally be looked for. Speaking honestly and to the best of our knowledge, the outlook for a bountiful harvest seems bright. Every farmer we met says that his grain is as far advanced as at this time last year. The crops were not suffering much from the few hot days just previous, and the general showers of Tuesday and Wednesday would do considerable good. There are some splendid fields of wheat all headed out and about two feet high, and as even as a tennis court. That which was sown later is coming on nicely. If we are blessed with favorable weather, and the frost keeps off as late as usual, "there'll be a hot time in the old town" this fall
—if the price is right.

London, July 20.—Despite strenuous efforts to secure a reprieve, including an appeal to the Queen, Mary Ann Ansell, convicted of murdering her sister, an inmate of an insane asylum by sending her poisoned cake, was hanged today at St. Albans.

The crime for which Mrs. Ansell was executed was committed for the purpose of securing the payment of life insurance money, the murderers having obtained a policy upon the life of her sister, giving a false description.

THEY USE EXPLOSIVES.

The Brooklyn Rioters Attempt to Blow Up the Elevated Railway.

New York, July 20.—An attempt was made to blow up the elevated railway structure at Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street in Brooklyn early this morning. The police say that it was the work of strikers or their sympathizers.

The situation of the Brooklyn strike today has not changed from yesterday sufficient to warrant either side in claiming gains over the other although both are boasting of victories.

A strike began this morning on the Second Avenue Railway company. Up to 8 a.m. about half the men on this line were out.

Joseph Bourdeau, porter on the steamer Kenora, was drowned, at 5.30 last evening at Little Falls, on the Rainy River, while the steamer was on her trip up to Fort Frances. The boat had just left the wharf and in some unaccountable manner Bourdeau lost his balance and fell into the river. He was seen to strike out for the shore and the steamer put about to pick him up. He had nearly reached the wharf when he sank to his death. The boat waited three hours at Little Falls while the officers and crew were searching for the body, but it could not be found. Bourdeau was sixteen years old and his parents live in Fort Frances. Capt. Thompson, of the Kenora, displayed great heroism, diving three times for the lad, but could not find him. He left a number of his crew on the spot to search for the body.

N. P. R. at Portage.

Portage la Prairie, July 19.—A party of railway civil engineers, consisting of Messrs. G. A. Simpson, of the N. P. R.; G. H. Webster, of the M. and N.W.; Mr. Woodman, of the C.P.R.; and Mr. Rideout, of the public works department, Ottawa, was in town yesterday looking over the proposed right of way for the N.P. extension. The visit was in connection with the crossing of the C. P. R. and M. & N.W. tracks by the new road.

At the town council meeting last night Mr. Wilson, on behalf of the Northern Pacific Railway company, desired to have the council grant running powers over Pacific avenue, instead of right of way, as this would enable the company to commence construction work, in spite of the opposition of the C.P.R. The council complied with the request. As soon as the necessary legislation is passed by the house in Winnipeg the work of track laying will commence and already preparations are being made by contractors to begin operations. One grading outfit is camped in the eastern part of the town, and a large number of horses have arrived to be utilized in the work.

Teams from Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha will be present at the Winnipeg cricket tournament next week.

Great Britain intends to promote closer trade between Canada and West India by subsidizing steamship lines.

Steamer Lost off Silver Ore.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—The British steamer Kentzia arrived from Guayaquil, with 16,429 sacks of high grade ore and 600 bars of pig silver, valued at over $150,000, besides an assorted cargo worth $150,000 more. There is no previous record in the customs house here of imports of silver ore to this city from South America and no duty is imposed.

The PRESS EXCURSION

All on board, and off for Spokane on Uncle Sam's side again. Where we arrived safe and sound the same evening.

Hotel accommodation in enterprising "burg," was scarce and at a premium, and some of us were hoisted five or six stories heavenward, to get a place to sleep in. Next day sight seeing, going in procession to lay a flag on the pier of Lieut. Mohaban, (killed in fighting along with the British sailors in Samoa) and a street car ride to the park.

In the afternoon a grand banquet and reception, and speeches by Senator Jones, the president of Chamber of Commerce, and ex-M. L. A. Insinger, late of Yorkton, on the American side, and President Scott, Magura, Bell and McInnis on behalf of the Canadian press. This was our last visit in the United States, and we wish just here to acknowledge the uniform courtesy, and hospitality of our American friends wherever we went, and the unvarying expressions of good will towards Great Britain, and Canada in particular. The Americans seen at home and in his own house, is a very different kind of man from the one we are apt to conjure up in our own minds through the medium of sensational newspaper articles, particularly of what in times gone by was of the "tailwasting" class.

From Spokane our journey led us finally homeward and Nelson, B.C., was our next point where we arrived about five in the evening. It is a very pretty go-ahead town on the Kootenay lakes, the distributing point for the mining districts in that part of British Columbia. Here as elsewhere we were most courteously treated, although our time was too short to admit of any public demonstration. Nelson is growing very rapidly, there being, we were informed 42 new buildings, all good ones in process of construction at the time of our visit.

Left Nelson by steamboat for Kaslo which we reached during the night after a delightful moonlight trip up the Kootenay lakes. Some of the "boys" spent the remainder of the night in doing the town along with the mayor and a few more of the local great ones. Kaslo is a very pretty town, and the hearts of the people are something like their mountains—big and kind. Arrangements had been made for our visiting Sandou, the "mining camp" of that part, so at an early hour we were once more off and away. Of all our trip, we thought that part between Kaslo and Sandou the grandest, and most sublime. Any attempt at description would fail to do it even scant justice. On Payne the train was stopped to let us have a look down sheer eight hundred feet to the bottom of the gorge.

Sandou is a typical mining town. Mines in all directions. The very streets are almost paved with silver. There are some very good buildings in the town, and others are being rapidly pushed forward. Here as elsewhere we were received with the utmost cordiality, and an address embodying a large amount of useful information was presented. Many of the excursionists secured valuable specimens of ore as souvenirs of their visit.

At 3 p.m. off again for Kaslo, to take the boat for Kootenay, where we were to meet our cars again, and then home. A splendid banquet had been got up, to which two or three hundred sat down. Then a speech of welcome from the mayor, and reply by the president and one or two other speeches and replies, and we had to take a hurried departure, as the boat kept up whistling "all aboard."

Kaslo was the last point in our itinerary, and we may just say in conclusion of this part, that everywhere we received the greatest courtesy and hospitality, and we speak the feelings of the whole party in saying that we are all under debt of lasting obligation for the kindness received on all hands during our trip.

The next morning found us once more on the train at Kootenay Landing. Toot, toot, went the whistle and we were off across a long trestle bridge across the lake, and then along the Crows Nest line. This road was an object of interest to some of our party. A good many men are still at work upon it. Of course everything is new. Some pretty new towns are springing up all along the line, of which Cranbrook and Fernie are at present the principal ones. Everything points to rapid development in the near future in this part of Canada. We cannot in this hasty sketch give any description of the country traversed by the Crows Nest road. No doubt many of the editors will do so in their respective papers, as also a much more lengthy one of the other different points of interest. We were once more on the prairies in the afternoon and at Fort McLeod our party began to break up, and from there onward to those dropping off, a long, a delightful, and most instructive journey had come to an end.

Two Dangerous Trades.

File cutting and glass polishing are the two trades in which the operatives are constantly subjected to the slow and stealthy growth of industrial disease. The danger in their case is even more alarming than in those which have been previously dealt with, as the power which daily menaces them is that most pernicious and treacherous evil, lead poisoning. In the case of file cutters the mischief is contained in the bed upon which the file is placed for cutting. This is composed of metallic lead, for, although other substances have been tried, it is declared that none of them give the desired amount of resistance without resilience obtained by a lead bed.

Glass polishing is dangerous in that the powder with which the edges of cut glass are treated contains 60 to 70 per cent of oxide of lead. Here, again, the same remedies are demanded, and fortunately they are not so difficult of attainment. In both these cases the poison poisons the victims with a malice as relentless as it is appalling, which kills or maims as surely as does any explosion or accident by violence.—Fortnightly Review

I have now been free from the distressing complaint for nearly eighteen months. I hope you will continue to receive it."

Minard's Liniment Cures sturns, etc.

Must Have Been Blind.
Here is rather a good story, which has also the merit of being true. A large firm in Aberdeen recently engaged as office boy a raw country youth. It was part of his duties to attend to the telephone in his master's absence. When first called upon to answer the bell, in reply to the usual query, "Are you there?" he added assent. Again the question came and still again, and each time the boy gave an answering nod. When the question came for the fourth time, however, the boy, losing his temper, roared through the telephone, "Man, a ye bin' I've been noddin me heid aff for t' last hauf 'oort!"—London Mail

Not of the Ancient Order.

Dehorned to Save Room.
Down here they saw the horns off the "wild" or Texas cattle before they ship them east. The animals pack better, take up less room in the cars, are not so likely to injure one another and look better to the buyer. ## A VANCOUVER LADY.

Cured of Asthma After Eight Years of Almost Constant Suffering—She Says the Absolute Freedom From the Disease Seems Like a Dream—(Clarke's Kola Compound Cures.

Mrs. J. Wise, Mt. Pleasant, Vancouver, B.C., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from bronchial asthma for the past eight years, many times having to sit up nearly all night. Through the kindness of a friend who had been cured by Clarke's Kola Compound, I resolved as a last resort to try it. The first bottle did not relieve me much, but before I had finished the third bottle, the attacks ceased altogether, and during the past six months of damp and cold weather have not had a single attack. It seems something like a dream to be free from this worst of all diseases after so many years of suffering. I have, since my recovery recommended this remedy to others suffering as I was, and know many others in this city whom it has cured. I consider it a marvelous remedy, and would urge any person suffering from this disease to try it."

Three Bottles are guaranteed to cure. A free sample bottle of Clarke's Kola Compound will be sent to any person who has asthma, mentioning this paper. Address The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 121 Church Street, Toronto, Ont., sole Canadian Agents.

WEAK RULERS.

They Have Seldom Retarded the Progress of a Nation.

It is a curious fact that several conspicuous examples of nations thriving under weak rulers are to be found in history. To begin with, the Roman empire undoubtedly reached its highest level of commercial and military prosperity during the first 400 years or so of the Christian era, and yet the majority of its rulers during this period displayed very little administrative ability, and many of them were not only weak, but absolutely vicious. In this case, however, it may be taken that the accumulated energy which had been growing up for centuries found its last expression during the reign of the later emperors, and that Rome developed rather in spite of them than because of them.

We have another striking example in Russia under Ivan the Terrible, who was undoubtedly the most unmitigated savage that ever occupied a European throne. Yet under his Russia developed in every way as she had never developed before. In fact, it is not too much to say that Ivan the Terrible made possible the work of Peter the Great.

The last century of the French monarchy saw its throne occupied by men of small ability and generally considerable vices, whose alleged greatness—as, for instance, Louis XIV.—was due to their ministers and not to themselves. Yet during this period France undoubtedly became the most powerful of the continental nations.

In English history we have a striking example in the reign of the infamous Charles II, the greatest scoundrel who ever sat on the English throne. In his reign the value of the mercantile marine doubled, the excise revenue nearly trebled and, perhaps most eloquent proof of all, and round the great cities more than trebled in value. So, too, with the first four Georges. They were all weak and most vicious, and yet it was during the period covered by their reigns the British nation took its final form and laid the foundation of all its subsequent triumphs.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

UNCLE MART AND THE INJUN.

An Adirondack Guide's Tale of Abominable Unreliability.

"Never heard tell of my uncle, Mart Moody," said the grizzled Adirondack guide from Long Lake. "Well, Uncle Mart was about the biggest drunkard and liar in the country, but he was one of the best hunters in the state—a regular Ramrod, as you say. One time he goes up to my Aunt Minerva, that's his wife, and says:—
"Minerva, me and the Injun, Captain Sybell, are going out to get some meat."
"All right," says my aunt, "but be careful, Martin, and don't let that heathen steal your clothes off your back." Uncle Mart just laughed and said he'd be back soon; they was only going down the lake a bit, and he would take care of the Injun. So off he goes, and the Injun, who was waiting for him in his canoe, says: "Hurry up, Mart; I think that was big deer in the water." So they paddled down the lake slowly and never spoke a word till they got down by the ledge near the alders. Then the Injun looked at Uncle Mart and said, "I tired," and, taking his paddle out of the water, he knocked Uncle Mart's powder horn overboard, accidental like.

"Uncle Mart was mad as a horned snake," says my pesky Injun skunk, take care what you do." But Captain Sybell said soft like, "Don't ye car," Mart; I go down and get it." With that he jumped overboard, and Uncle Mart laid back and thought of home and Aunt Minerva, who was a mighty fine woman. Bimely it struck him that the Injun had been in the water a powerful long time. He calculated it was high noon ten minutes or more, so he just looked over to see what he was doing. He thought he might be drowned, so he just lay down in the water. That there water was as clear as rum, and what do ye think he saw? Why, that there pesky Injun was a-settin on the bottom snuffin and pourin the powder out of Uncle Mart's powder horn into his own. You can't trust Injuns!"—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Ruled by the Stars.

Here is an old astrological prediction said to indicate with tolerable certainty the character of the girl according to the month she happens to be born in, says an exchange:

If a girl is born in January, she will be a prudent housewife, given to melancholy, but good tempered.

If in February, a humane and affectionate wife and tender mother.

If in March, a frivolous chatterbox, somewhat given to quarrelling.

If in April, inconsistent, not intelligent, but likely to be good looking.

If in May, handsome and likely to be happy.

If in June, impetuous, will marry early and be frivolous.

If in July, passably handsome, but with a sulky temper.

If in August, amiable and practical, likely to marry rich.

If in September, discreet, affable and much liked.

If in October, pretty and coquettish and likely to be unhappy.

If in November, liberal, kind, of a mild disposition.

If in December, well proportioned, fond of novelty and extravagant.

Mrs. Gumpke—Well, these 'ere doctors don't know much, that's a fact. You know what a time I've had with little Johnny's month lately?

Caller—Yes, you told me.

Mrs. Gumpke—Well, at last I took him to a doctor. The doctor looked him over and said Johnny "hadn't no organic disease." And yet there Johnny sat right in plain sight with his lips all sore from playin' the month organ.—New York Weekly.

Severe colds are easily cured by the use of Bickell's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, a kind of extraordinary penetrating and healing properties. It is acknowledged by those who have used it as being the best medicine sold for coughs, colds, and all affections of the throat and chest. Its agreeableness to the taste makes it a favorite with ladies and children.

Temper, says an authority, has immense influence on the tone of the singing voice. An ill-natured or querulous person will invariably have a catlike quality in the voice, which is perceptible in singing quite as much as in speaking.

CAMPERS

Should take with them a supply of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

Those who intend going camping this summer should take with them Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Getting wet, catching cold, drinking water that is not always pure, or eating food that disagrees, may bring on an attack of Colic, Cramps and Diarrhoea. Prompt treatment with Dr. Fowler's Strawberry in such cases relieves the pain, checks the diarrhoea and prevents serious consequences. Don't take chances of spoiling a whole summer's outing through neglect of putting a bottle of this great diarrhoea doctor in your supply. But see that it's the genuine Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, as most of the imitations are highly dangerous.

Permanent Cure of Cancer.

MRS. GIHULA.

Some twelve years ago Mrs. Elizabeth Gihula, wife of the postmaster of Buxton, Ont., was taken ill with an obscure stomach trouble which her physicians pronounced cancer of the stomach and informed her that her lease of life would be short.

On the advice of friends she commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters. The results that followed were little short of marvellous. Her strength and vigor returned and in a short time she was completely cured.

Mrs. Gihula is to-day in the full enjoyment of good health, and in all these years there has not been the slightest return of the trouble.

Here is the letter Mrs. Gihula wrote at the time of her cure:

"About four years ago I was taken sick with stomach trouble and consulted several of the leading physicians here, all of whom pronounced the disease to be cancer of the stomach of an incurable nature, and told me that it was hardly to be expected that I could live long. Afterward the two doctors who were attending me gave me up to die. By the advice of some of my friends, who knew of the virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters, I was induced to try it, and I am now happy to say that after using part of the first bottle I felt so much better I was able to get up. I am thankful to state that I am completely cured of the disease by the use of B.B.B., although it had baffled the doctors for a long time. I am firmly convinced that Burdock Blood Bitters saved my life."

Here is the letter received from her a short time ago:

"I am still in good health. I thank Burdock Blood Bitters for saving my life twelve years ago, and highly recommend it to other sufferers from stomach troubles of any kind." ELIZABETH GIHULA.

IT IS A LIVER PILLS.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver troubles now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation through gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

He made a dash at the dog, and when they had got up a fairly good fight "Billy" leaped the ground and Alex. took a summer's rest over him with the above result. "Billy" is very sorry that he has been the cause of so much pain, but he only meant to play a "practical joke."

M. J. MacLEOD, The Up-to-Date Store....

Mr. Baker Leaving.

Moose Jaw is about to lose one of her most prominent and successful business men in the person of Mr. Thos. B. Baker, who will leave with his wife and family for Winnipeg in the course of a few days. This is the second of our pioneer business men that Winnipeg has claimed. Only last year Mr. W. W. Bole, who was for many years our popular druggist, left for that city and became a member of the Bole Drug Co. It is now some sixteen years since Mr. Baker opened up in Moose Jaw as a general merchant. After a while he commenced buying grain and met with such success that he has made it his principal business, last year having buyers at over fifteen different points. Mr. Baker intends launching out on a still larger scale, and in order to do so he finds it necessary to move to Winnipeg, which has many advantages to offer, being the grain buying centre of the West.

Mr. Baker will still retain his interests in Moose Jaw, and his store will be under the efficient management of Mr. C. A. W. Stunt.

Moose Jaw Wins.

A few minutes after 10 o'clock last Saturday the Buffalo Lake and Moose Jaw football teams lined up on the grounds for a friendly game. The Buffalo Lake boys were captained by Mr. Robt. McCartney, and Vice-Captain H. J. Wilson was in charge of the town team in the place of Captain Alexander, who acted as referee, and who has not yet fully recovered from his experience at Regina. A very high wind was blowing straight down the field, which materially assisted Buffalo Lake during the first half and when half time was called the country boys had scored one. During the second half Buffalo Lake had to play against the wind—and Moose Jaw. The wind put up a good defence game, allowing the ball to get through Moose Jaw's goal but once, while our boys ran up a score of three before time was called. Moose Jaw was therefore declared the winner by 3 goals to 2. The game was friendly in every sense of the word, there being—as is usually the case—an entire absence of any disagreeableness. After the match was over both teams and a number of their friends repaired to Green's Restaurant, where they refreshed themselves with ice cream, etc.
